

Notes on the Word Quiz

Dear all,

Firstly please find attached the answers to yesterday's Word Quiz: I hope you did not find it too difficult.

Most of the answers are self-explanatory and hopefully the same as yours: just a few comments:

Question 2: The Greek cheese is Manouri although when I wrote it I had in mind Halloumi as the answer.

However my proof reader came up with Manouri and when I checked I found that Halloumi is in fact Cypriot so Manouri it is (and I too have learnt something!)

Q28 - again I meant Poultry to be the obvious answer but Poulet is also acceptable.

For Q37 I was looking for Courage as the answer but in case anyone came up with Valour I would (grudgingly) accept that as well.

Q52 - although I was looking for doughnuts as the answer as they are deep fried so are Goujons so that is also acceptable.

Q60 - the 36 in the clue refers - of course - to the answer to Question 36 which is Roulette and the only number that is green is Zero or Nought, the others either being Red or Black. I'm sure no-one achieved nought in the Quiz itself!

Anyway I hope you enjoyed it - today's Themed Quiz to keep you on track (!) is on Trains and Railways: don't be put off as you'll be amazed how much you already know.

Answers on Monday,

Have fun, stay healthy, and stay sane!

Peter.
